a topographical map of the city of Győr, on which are indicated Hungarian and Soviet installations.

The following installations are numerically pinpointed on the map:

1. Soviet barracks where artillery, engineer, and service troops are probably housed. Small units have been observed entering the barracks wearing black insignia (engineers, tank, and service troops), and some soldiers have been seen entering who wore artillery insignia. The barracks, dating from the early nineteen-hundreds, consist of several two- or three story buildings, brick-red in color, with a spacious courtyard in the center in which troops have been observed receiving drilling instructions.
2. At least one infantry regiment is stationed in this barracks. Three trucks were observed entering the barracks loaded with soldiers wearing collar insignia of a violet-red shade and round, gold insignia with two oak branches with a star in the middle (infantry). Later, infantry units entered a few at a time. Numerous vehicles and a maneuver area were observed inside the camp. The camp covers a large area, is enclosed by a wall, and consists of numerous one- and two-story buildings, sheds, and courtyards. The buildings, of recent construction, are small functional barracks. One side of the barracks has two doors which open onto highway number 82.
3. These are small buildings, recently built but in a state of disrepair, grey in color, and believed to be warehouses and a small communications section. In fact, a few hundred meters from the buildings there is a field-type radio direction finder fixed to the ground. It consists of a little shack, raised from the ground, surrounded by six antennas about ten meters high.

4. A Hungarian security guard barracks, consisting of a big building, several stories high, dirty-yellow in color. In addition to AVH units, the complex includes police offices, the tribunal, and the military prosecutor's office. The entrance to these ~~last~~ two offices is on the Arpad ut, and on the door there is a plaque on which appears Katonai Birosag (military tribunal) and Katonai Ugyeszeg (military prosecutor).
5. A Hungarian barracks of the fuctional type, consisting of one- and two-story buildings trimmed in red and green. Members of the border guard (approximately battalion strength) are located here.
6. Starting point of a road leading to a Soviet-occupied area. Observation and rumors indicate that in the middle of this area there is a huge training ground, as well as a small airport, whose windsock can occasionally be seen. The area to the east lies between highway number 1 and highway number 80, reaching to Györszentivan. Numerous soldiers belonging to units of the Legoltalom (civilian defense) have been observed in this area; perhaps there is a civil defense unit in town in charge of organizing and training factory workers. Soldiers attached to Legoltalom wear uniforms with silver buttons.
